NANB Hosts Biennial Conference

FREDERICTON, June 4, 2009 — The Nurses Association of New Brunswick (NANB) will host their biennial Conference today at the Delta Hotel Fredericton showcasing five internationally and nationally-known speakers who will address the following topics:

- 'Quality Work Environments: Research and Solutions' Martine Mayrand Leclerc, Professeur, Université du Québec en Outaouais
- 'Optimizing Nursing Role Effectiveness Through Job and System Re-design' Linda Desrochers, Corporate Associate Coordinator of Nursing Clinical Practice, Ottawa Hospital
- 'Family Practice Nursing and Innovations in Nova Scotia' Patsy Smith, Project Lead, PLS Consulting Inc.
- 'Nursing Best Practice on Healthy Work Environments' Irmajean Bajnok, Director International Affairs and Best Practice Guidelines Program, RNAO
- 'Looking ahead: making it happen' Judith Oulton, Oulton & Associates

“These guest speakers, experts in their field, will deliver insightful information for members to cope with today’s challenges facing our profession,” says Monique Cormier-Daigle, President of NANB, New Brunswick’s professional regulatory body representing 8900 registered nurses and nurse practitioners in the province.

The Conference will begin at 09 00 and end at 16 30.
