

Catherine Hupé

PhD candidate in nursing sciences at Université de Montréal and Assistant to the Director of Nursing, Catherine Hupé works on the rollout of activities at the Nursing Excellence Center and supports the expansion of advanced nursing practice within the organization.

Her research and practice interests include nursing quality measurement and evaluation, chemical restraint or sedation of behavioral symptoms, hematopoietic or immune cell cancer therapies (CAR-T), mother-child care and neonatology.

Recognitions:

- 2020 – Fellowship from the Montreal Mental Health University Institute Research Center (FRQS)
- 2019 – Fellowship/scientific award: Quebec Nursing Intervention Research Network (RRISIQ); SARESI
- 2019 – Fellowship from TD Bank and Maisonneuve-Rosemont Hospital Foundation
- 2019 – Scholarships from the Quebec ministry of Education and Higher Studies, OIIQ, Universities (2018-19)

Works published or distributed:

- Hupé, C., Larue, C., Pepin C., Gazemar, V. and Contandriopoulos, D. (December, 2019). Quality Standards of Nursing Care for The Use of Chemical Restraints : a Realist Review. Journal of Nursing Care Quality, 35(3).
- Maheu-Cadotte, M.A., Pepin, C., Lavallée, A., Hupé, C., Mailhot, T., Duchaine, C. and Fontaine, G. (November, 2019). Gestational Hypertension, Preeclampsia and Peripartum Cardiomyopathy: A Clinical Review. American Journal of Nursing, 119 (11), 2-10.
- Hupé, C. and Lavallée, A. (2017). Internal and external validity of Chen et al.'s nursing-sensitive quality indicators for the neonatal intensive care unit. Journal of Clinical Nursing, 26(23-24), e6-e7. doi:10.1111/jocn.13956

- Hupé, C. (2014). Comparaison de la qualité de vie au travail d'infirmières travaillant par quarts de 8 heures et de 12 heures dans les hôpitaux québécois (unpublished master's dissertation). Université du Québec à Rimouski, Québec.
-